Methodist Conference to Close Sunday; 10 Retire at Meeting Today

All Services
Tomorrow Will Be Held at Junior High

The 105th session of the Southern Illinois conference of the Methodist church winds up its activities here today and tomorrow. There will be business sessions, preaching, conferences and a banquet today, and tomorrow the four-day meeting which brought nearly 600 delegates here from all over southern Illinois will end with the annual conference love feast at 9:30 a. m., the morning ship session at 10:30 a. m. and a 2 p. m. final gathering which will include the following:

Service of recognition and ordination, recognition of retiring ministers, ordination of deacons, ordination of elders, and appointments of ministers for the coming year. All services tomorrow will be at the Harrisburg Junior high school. 10 Members Retire

The day of retirement arrived this morning for ten members of the conference—eight men and two women retiring. Age, for the

57 Young Men In Area Prepare For Ministry

The supply of pastors in the Methodist church is looking up in this area.

Wendell Robinson, superintendent of the Carbondale district, reported today he was pleased to announce there will be 57 young men from southern Illinois in seminary this year preparing for the ministry.

This is the largest number ever from this area, Dr. Robinson said. Nine young men came into the conference as ministers this morning on trial. They are F. Glenn Creek, David Hurley, Ernest Francis, Paul Pearson, Judson Souers, Bobbie Treat, Kenneth Dean, James Weiss and Walter Storey.

The following were admitted for full connection:

R. Paul Brown, Carl Henn, Dennis Ramsey, Earl Stover and Frank Pierce.

Sunday the following who are elected elders will be ordained: Shirley Milner and L. B. Howard.

Conference members who have completed the conference course of study—the last group to be admitted and ordained elders under this rule as all from now on must come through the theological seminary route—are R. Paul Brown, Glenn Fisher, Leo Copeland and Paul Vise.

Under the seminary rule, the following will be ordained elders: Jack Adams, John Grob, Carl Henn, Robert Hollis, William B. Lewis, Frank Pierce, Ray Porter, Earl Stover and Dennis Ramsey.

greater part, and health as a lesser reason were the reasons for retirement. In some cases, where physically able, these people will take a small charge and continue to preach.

The one who entered the service earliest is Earl W. Barrett of Albion, conference treasurer since 1946 who entered the ministry in 1909. He had been the member the longest, but had not preached for the past ten years, attending to the growing duties of the treasurer.

M. A. Souers is the oldest active preacher, having preached for 45 years. No man who entered the conference when he did is actively preaching. He will live at Mt. Vernon.

Others are: Ernest Connett of Mill Shoals, of the class of 1912; E. M. Lawler of Brownstown, of the class of 1920; Otto Horsley of Alto Sita, East St. Louis, of the class of 1915; D. C. Williams of Ohlong, of the class of 1930; Fred Mery of Staunton, of the class of 1926; and E. W. Fox of Equality, of the class of 1923.

Several Activities

Also retiring are two women supply pastors, Mrs. Ruth Martin, widow of a pastor and mother of a son in the ministry, who has nearly 25 years of preaching; and Mrs. Alma McClain of Noble.

The conference broke into activities of several kinds Friday. Women arrived for their meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service. Jaymen met at the Christian church and ministers at the Presbyterian church; and the district superintendents continued to meet with pastors as they made final arrangements for appointments which will be announced Sunday at the close of the ordination service.

The men heard a report from Glendon Hodson, president of the General conference, a report from J. O. Hall of Harrisburg of the every-member canvass to raise the church budget, and from J. N. Vallow of Kimmunity, who told what lay speakers could do in witness and in being supply preachers.

Ebert Storey, Brother Of Mrs. Harry Denny, Dies at Atlanta, Ga.

Ebert Storey, 65, former resident of Harrisburg, died suddenly as a result of a heart attack Thursday evening at his home in Atlanta, Ga.

He was the brother of Mrs. Harry Denny, 1105 South McKinley. Mr. and Mrs. Denny left Friday for Atlanta to attend the funeral and burial.

Father Retires, Son is Accepted Into Ministry

An unusual incident occurred this morning at the Methodist conference here when M. A. Souers, a pastor since 1911 and the oldest active member of the conference in point of service, retired while his son, Judson Souers, graduating this spring from Southern Illinois university, was accepted on trial into the ministry.

The young Rev. Souers is slated to enter a theological seminary this fall. He now preaches at Olive Branch and Thebes and was delayed from attending conference until yesterday because of an auto mishap in which his car overturned several times near Murphysboro.

The retiring Rev. Souers has been pastor at Pinckneyville since 1946. He has served pastorates at Belmont, McLeansboro, El Paso, Texas, Godfrey, Signal Hill, Staunton, Palestine, Alton, Mt. Carmel, Cairo, Mt. Vernon, Murphysboro and Pinckneyville.

He plans to live at Mt. Vernon.

Two Producers During Week

Taken from the Robertson Tri-State Oil Report

Two producers, one in Brushy and the other in Eldorado township, and four dry holes, all in Raleigh township, comprise the completions for Saline county during the period ending May 22.

The Buchanan-Neal John C. Small No. 1, SEC SW SW, 24-85-56 (Brushy) made a producer in the Aux Vases with initial production 66 barrels per day on flow through a 5-16 inch choke.

Nash Redwine's Marjorie Whyte No. 4, 154 feet south and 300 feet west of NEc SW SE, 18-85-76 (Eldorado) made an oil well in the Palestine with initial production 50 barrels per day on pump after fracture.

Dry and abandoned were: Paul Rossi's Gregg No. 1, NEc SW NE, 4-85-66 (Raleigh); the Lobree and Lobree Endicott; Pearce 1-A, SWc SE NE, 16-85-66; the Little Three Sissy-Kennedy Communitized No. 1, NWc NE NE, 22-85-66; and Breuer-Robison's S. Wilson No. 1, NEc SW NE, 30-85-66.

Minister Quits Because Pressure Prevents Children from 'Normal Life'

AUDUBON, Iowa (AP)—The Rev. Grant Elford said today he quit the ministry partially because the "pressure" on a minister's family prevents his children from living a "normal" life.

"I don't want to leave the impression that I have any rancor at all. But the pressure on a minister and his family is so great that when his children are small they are not able to live the lives of normal live-wire children," he said.

Elford announced to his parishioners at the First Methodist Church here last week that he would quit the ministry June 1 to become a special representative at Spencer for a life insurance company. Elford, a native of Rochester, Minn., is 35 years old and the father of three children, Jonathan, 12, Jeannette, 10, and Barbara, 8.

Shawneetown Bridge to Open Friday 2 p. m.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton announced today that a new highway bridge over the Ohio river at Old Shawneetown will be officially opened to traffic at 2 p. m. (CST) Friday, June 1.

Completion of 2.45 miles of paving on Illinois Route 13 will provide the Illinois approach to the toll bridge which was constructed by the state of Kentucky at a cost of $5,000,000 according to Director Edward A. Rosenstone of the Department of Public Works and Buildings.

Opening of the bridge will provide residents of southern Illinois with a direct connection with U. S. Route 41 to the southeastern states. A ferry service across the Ohio river has been in operation since 1914 at a point near where the new bridge has been constructed.

Barter Built Approach

Illinois awarded a bridge contract on March 9, 1955, to Howell Engineering Co. of Carbondale for construction of a 3-span bridge 125 feet in length and a grade separation structure 127 feet in length over Market St. in Shawneetown at a contract price of $134,322.72.

A contract for the grading and paving of 2.45 miles connecting Illinois Route 13 and the west end of the river bridge was awarded May 5, 1955, to J. D. Barter Construction Company, Harrisburg, at a contract price of $818,635.84, making the total cost of the improvement $952,958.56.

More than one million cubic yards of earth was moved in constructing the embankment which varied in height from 10 to 30 feet.

The elevation of the new highway approach is 373½ feet above sea level. This is well above normal high water and is a significant fact as the ferry's operation was suspended when high water reached the elevation of 349 feet.

The new route is approximately one mile shorter than the old route to the ferry. The pavement is uniformly nine inches thick and 22 feet in width. It has 10-foot shoulders, three feet of which are of stone. The new pavement replaces an old pavement 18 feet in width constructed in 1924. The approaches to the old ferry were steep, winding and difficult at times to negotiate.

Beer Confiscated By Police Chief

Fifty cases of beer today were under lock and key at the Harrisburg city hall.

The beer was confiscated yesterday around 2 p. m. by Chief of Police Ross Lane.

Lane said he received a complaint that the beer was being unloaded into the Eagles building from a truck on Elm street. He investigated the complaint, he said, and found that 10 of 50 cases already had been taken into the building.

Lane made the unloaders put the 10 cases back onto the truck and drive to the city hall, where the cases were unloaded and locked up.

There had been no charges filed this morning.

Search for Bartender Suspected of Murdering Daughter of Prominent Family

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A nationwide search was underway today for a 35-year old bartender suspected of murdering an attractive young blonde believed to be the daughter of a wealthy and socially prominent Philadelphia family.

Nevada authorities issued an all-points bulletin for William Boswell after a decomposed body believed to be that of Mrs. Anne Harris van Ryne, 23, was found stuffed in a closet in the bartender's apartment.

Kansas City police reported that Boswell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Boswell Sr., said their son visited them Wednesday and Thursday and then left telling them he was going to New York to get a job.

Boswell was driving a green Buick station wagon bearing a Nevada license plate issued to Mrs. Van Ryne. Authorities believed there was a possibility he was heading toward the home of his wife in Middlebury, Vt.

The victim was apparently garrotted about May 21 with the belt of a dress found beneath her body. She was four or five months pregnant. The body was found in Boswell's fly-infested room Thursday, but its condition made identification difficult.

Authorities said the general description of the victim matched that of Mrs. Van Ryne and said fingerprints taken from the corpse matched those in her room at a nearby guest ranch. However, they were awaiting the arrival of dental charts from Philadelphia before calling the identification positive.

In Philadelphia an attorney for the Harris family said it was not definite, but "pretty certain" the dead woman was the former Anne Lamont Harris.

The father, 56-year old retired president of the Jacobs aircraft company of Pottstown, Pa., said he was "satisfied from the description" that the dead woman was his daughter.

Boy, 15, Kills His Foster Parents; Admits Action Planned for Months

WATSEKA, Ill. (AP)—A 15-year-old boy shot his foster parents with a pistol and a rifle.

The youth told police he killed Jensen instantly with the shotgun, threw the weapon into a cistern, and then waited for Jensen's wife.

Deffenbaugh emptied the nine-shot pistol at Mrs. Jensen when she came in the front door with her two daughters, Sandra, 9, and Sharon, 5, but missed all shots.

Mrs. Jensen fled screaming from the house with her daughters. The youth followed close behind with the rifle, and shouted:

"There's no use in running. Your husband is dead."

Mrs. Jensen ran about 300 yards before collapsing from exhaustion. Deffenbaugh said she begged for her life when he caught up with her, but he ignored her pleas and killed her with a shot in the chest.

The daughters ran to nearby farm houses from where neighbors called authorities. Sheriff's deputies said the boy made no attempt to escape.

Meeting Held At Eldorado To Keep Train

NYC Application To Remove Passenger Service Before ICC

Saline county protesters to the New York Central's application to remove its Chicago-to-Harrisburg passenger service met at Eldorado last night and voted to join Mt. Carmel protest action to keep the train moving.

Last night's meeting, held at the Eldorado city hall, was called by Eldorado Mayor Carl Johnson. Harrisburg Mayor Claud Gibbons and Carrier Mills Mayor Freeman O'Keefe were in the delegation that included representatives from the Eldorado Chamber of Commerce and the Harrisburg Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The NYC application is set to come up before the Illinois Commerce commission June 7, but there were some indications that a continuance can be obtained at Springfield on that date because of lack of time for the protesters to formulate their case.

Mayor Johnson read a communication from Mt. Carmel telling of a protest meeting to be held there June 5 and all three mayors present said they would be able to attend that meeting. Others present said that they, too, could attend.

It was believed by those present that it will be determined at Mt. Carmel June 5 whether it will be necessary to send delegations to Springfield June 7.

The Mt. Carmel meeting is scheduled to start at 1 p. m.

In the past the NYC has attempted to take off the passenger train. Last time a big effort was made to remove it, a concerted action was taken by towns all up and down the line and many towns not on the line which were affected.

It was pointed out in Illinois Commerce commission hearings held here and elsewhere that the passenger train is an economic necessity as well as a convenience—that many types of industry in towns both on and off the road depend on the service offered.

It has been brought up many times, also, that if the NYC offered service similar to other lines, the passenger service would be used more often.

Cottage to Vote on Road Improvement Bonds

Cottage township will vote on a $5,000 bond issue for township road improvement, it was decided last night at a meeting held at Rocky Branch school.

The definite date was not decided upon, but it will be around June 10, Dave Leverett, Cottage highway commissioner, said today.

The group voted to back Leverett in maintaining load limits on township roads to keep the roads from breaking down.

A Friendly Visitor

INDONESIA'S President Sukarno has proved a captivating visitor to America.
Not only has he shown a tremendously engaging personality, but he has revealed a considerable knowledge of this country, its history, and especially its revolutionary origins.
Again and again he has demonstrated in words that he has real appreciation for the ideal of freedom which sparked the American Revolution and made this nation's course a beacon of liberty-loving people all over the world.
He shows, too, a determination to search discriminatingly for the real essence of America—beyond bathtubs and motels and flashy suburbs and tall buildings. He has been looking for the "state of mind" which lies at the root of all we do as a people.
Sukarno's country is "neutral" in the Cold War. But his visit provides proof that to be neutral doesn't mean to be unfriendly, as some would argue. We should all be very glad he came.

Year-Old Motel Has To Make Way For Road

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — The year-old Linden Motel at near-by Mona Lake is going to be torn down.
The motel, one of the finest in the state, was built before it was learned that an expressway was going to run through the property.
State highway department officials decided it would be cheaper to pay the owners $118,000 for the motel than to detour the expressway around it.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND
By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Our skidding foreign policy needs the imaginative stimulus of Clare Boothe Luce; Nixon made sure President Sukarno got real welcome; Burma refused to invite Dulles for good-will visit.

WASHINGTON.—If I were like and truly wanted to rescue the disastrous skid of American foreign policy, I would bring Clare Boothe Luce back to Washington and appoint her to a top place in the State Department, perhaps even as secretary of state.

And if her health would not permit Mrs. Luce to work full time, I would appoint Richard Nixon undersecretary.

Some readers will probably figure that I have been smitten with the lady's charm and beauty; and that I want to get Nixon out of the vice-presidential race. But the fact is that Mrs. Luce has shown more imagination and statesmanship than any other U. S. diplomat, while Nixon has developed a shrewd showmanship and knack of winning friends abroad.

It was Mrs. Luce who, after some initial mistakes, helped to guide Italy's galloping communism into pro-western, pro-democratic channels. She steered American arms orders to Italian factories in such a way that the giant Fiat company's labor unions voted to throw out communist leadership; and she deftly, unobtrusively helped the Italian government put across land reform and revamp its tax system so as to put a proportionately greater burden on the rich than on the poor.

It was Mrs. Luce, also, who saw in President Gromchi a new, moderate leader of Europe; and she persuaded Eisenhower to invite him to Washington. Here Gromchi was the first to warn our head-in-the-sand John Foster Dulles that NATO was falling apart and must be broadened with economic and political functions.

Mrs. Luce's husband's Time magazine has castigated me almost every week with weird distortions of the truth. I have no reason to be prejudiced in her favor. But I have watched her work for years—in Congress and in Rome—and she is a person of judgment, brilliance, and imagination. She would be a great asset to the nation if used to guide our entire foreign policy in Washington.

SUKARNO WEPT
When President Sukarno of Indonesia concluded his drive down Constitution Avenue and his reception at the hands of Vice President Nixon, and when he was alone with the Indonesian ambassador, he wept.

His wept because of one great factor which most Americans do not understand about Asia and Asians—the color line.
Sukarno is brown, we are white. And before he came here he was fearful that this color line would humiliate him. Every Asian worries about this. That was why he nervously went to the grave of his father to pray before he left, and to the home of his mother for her blessing.

When President Sukarno of Indonesia concluded his drive down Constitution Avenue and his reception at the hands of Vice President Nixon, and when he was alone with the Indonesian ambassador, he wept.

Believe Colorado Ruled Out as Ike Vacation Site

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — High altitude and distance from the nation's capital appeared to eliminate Colorado today as the site of President Eisenhower's summer vacation — at least this year.
Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, White House physician, hinted Thursday in a telegram to the Colorado Springs Free Press that the state is too far from Washington to be suitable for an election year vacation for the President.
Earlier, Snyder had said that he believed Colorado's high altitude possibly would have a bad effect on Mr. Eisenhower. The President suffered a heart attack in Denver last September.
Jack Mohler, editor and publisher of the Free Press, demanded an apology from Snyder in a telegram to the White House and disputed the physician's statements concerning Colorado's altitude being a "bad effect."

Friars Impressed By Truman's 'Human Plainness'

ASSISI, Italy (U.P.)—Franciscan friars prayed for visiting Baptist Harry S. Truman at the tomb of St. Francis today.

Father Rayner Ziemiński, who showed Mr. Truman the Basilica of St. Francis Friday, said he prayed for the former President at morning Mass.

"I'm sure some of the other brothers did too," the American priest said.

Father Ziemiński, of Baltimore, said all the friars were deeply impressed by Mr. Truman's "human plainness."

"He was so unlike the big shots we have seen before," he said. "He wasn't aloof. He didn't put on any airs. You'd think he was an ordinary Joe."

The custodian of the Basilica, Father Lorenzo Berardini, repaid the ex-President's visit to the church by calling on Mr. Truman at the Windsor-Savoy Hotel shortly before his departure by car for Florence.

Navy to Build 2 More A-Subs

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Construction of two more atomic submarines—one the Navy's largest, and the other its fastest—will start next Tuesday at Groton, Conn.

Keels of the new undersea craft will be laid with little fanfare at the yards of Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp.

The two craft bring to nine the total of atomic-powered subs built or being built. Another six are scheduled for construction during the fiscal year starting July 1.

The big new submarine will be a radar picket boat, designed to screen naval task forces against air, sea or undersea attack. It will weigh 6,000 tons, compared with the 3,000-ton Nautilus—the world's first atomic sub.

The second sub, designed for attack, will be more astonishing in many ways than any of the earlier atomic-powered vessels. Named the Skipjack, it will feature a tear-drop shaped "Albacore" hull which takes its name from the experimental, conventionally-powered sub Albacore.

The combination of high-speed hull and single atomic reactor are expected to give the Skipjack much more speed than the Nautilus, which itself zips along under water at more than 20 knots.

There was an executive session for ministers only.

Inspiring Sermon
The banquet on evangelism, board of education and McKendree college brought one of the most inspiring sermons heard in the conference when Dr. Thomas Carruth of the Methodist Board of Evangelism spoke on prayer, the need of it, the power of it and the growing use of it.

The night congregation again heard Dr. R. B. Pierce of Indianapolis in an address of inspiration.

Today's program included youth gatherings, a reception for young ministers, an opening sermon by Bishop Charles W. Brashers, and a sermon at eight o'clock tonight by Dr. William R. Cannon, professor of Church History and dean of the Candler School of Theology, Emory university in Georgia.

With such large crowds expected tomorrow, it was decided to hold all the activities at the junior high school. Dr. C. L. Peterson will preside and the Rev. Carl E. 'earn will be song leader at the annual conference love feast at 9:30. There will be no Sunday school.

Bishop Brashers will deliver the morning worship sermon at the 10:30 service. The local pastor, the Rev. W. L. Cummins, will preside.

Adjournment of the conference will come after the reading of appointments at the 2 p. m. service.

Air Force Lowers Basic Training Period

T/Sgt. George R. Crongeyer of the Air Force recruiting office, in the city hall, stated today the Air Force basic training has been cut to four weeks for men going on to Air Force schools.

Air Force basic is normally 11 weeks at Lackland AFB, Texas, but more than 70 per cent of the men entering the Air Force go on to school.

The purpose of the cut is to get airmen into schools and into their particular jobs sooner. The Air Force gets the benefit of the airmen's training sooner and for a longer period of time. The airmen get more practical experience and the taxpayer and the Air Force get greater economic benefit from the cost of training, Sgt. Crongeyer says.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our father, J. T. Tavender, who died May 27, 1949, seven years ago Sunday.
Gone, dear father, gone forever;
How we miss your smiling face,
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed,
How sweet the memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
Sadly missed by daughters,
Ruth, Grace and Maud. *281-1

Mike's and Ben's wrists were handcuffed behind them. They were marched down a long corridor, the sound of the guards' heels resounding hollowly. After a series of locked doors they emerged in the courtyard of the prison. Two black cars were waiting. "You, Linden, in the first auto!" Mike sat between a pair of plainclothes Gestapo men. An armed soldier sat in the front seat alongside the driver. The doors shut. The car moved slowly through the courtyard. The mammoth gates of Averof Prison opened. The cars rolled out, turned on their sirens and raced for the center of Athens and German Field Police Headquarters.

Near Concord Square they were forced to slow down. Mike was thrown from his seat as the driver slammed on his brakes. A truck bolted over the intersection of Patission and Chalkondili Streets and stopped directly in their path. The driver leaned on his horn. It all happened in seconds. Two dozen armed Greeks swarmed from the truck and surrounded the two cars. The drivers and guards were dragged out, disarmed and forced to lay on their faces on the sidewalk.

"Morrison! This way!"

Michalis, a Tommy gun cradled in his arm, pulled Mike from the car and pulled him along up the street. A car waited at the corner. Michalis pushed Mike into it. Ben Masterson ran toward the crowd around Concord Square. "See you in Berlin, mate!" he yelled to Mike.

Mike looked back from his car as it ripped into motion. He saw the German autos being turned over in the street and the armed Greeks pouring back into the truck which headed in the opposite direction. "Hurry!" Michalis roared at the driver in the voice that could be heard clear up to Salonika. The phone rang. Heiser staggered from the couch, groggy from the sedatives. He shook his head and lifted the receiver. "Yes?"

"Konrad, this is Zervos. I am at Anton's Dress Shop."

"What is it?"

"Lisa did not keep her appointment."

"Why?"

"How should I know?"

"Get back here! Immediately!"

Heiser could not understand what that meant. He walked to the basin and ducked his head under the cold-water tap.

A knock on the door. The brown-shirted orderly stepped in.

"Manolis Kyriakides to see you, sir."

Heiser frowned. Lisa's husband. Maybe he knew.

"Send him in."

"Yes, sir."

Manolis Kyriakides was ushered in. At one time he might have been a handsome man, but now his eyes were shifty and frightened. He might once have stood tall and straight, but now he cringed in the attitude of a coward. Beads of sweat trickled down his nose and chin as he stood in front of Heiser with his hat in his hand.

"They—the children—they—have been kidnapped!"

Heiser leaped to his feet and grabbed Manolis by the collar and shook him so violently the drops of sweat bounced from his face.

Heiser backed him across the room and threw him into a chair.

Manolis trembled. "Water, please."

He emitted a feeble croak from his cracked lips. "They came last night..."

Lisa led them, a dozen men—shot the guard, took the children."

Manolis closed his eyes and wept.

"Last night!" Heiser screamed.

"Why weren't we informed immediately?"

"They—they—said they'd kill me if I came to you before..."

Heiser smashed Manolis' face over and over. Manolis fell to the floor sobbing hysterically.

"Guards! Guards! Take him to Averof and shoot him!"

Heiser sat at his desk pounding the marble top. Collaborators! Why do we have to have collaborators to win a war?

Why don't we have men like Ioannis Rodies and Stergiou serving us?

The door opened.

Zervos stepped in. "Konrad," he said, "brace yourself. Morrison was in Averof. He has escaped."

The wine cellar beneath Gyni's Restaurant on Armodiou Place was pitch black. Mike and Lisa huddled in a corner. He drew her close and stroked her hair.

Mike recounted the afternoon's events. En route to Gestapo Headquarters, Michalis had led a daring ambush in downtown Athens.

In only a matter of minutes he had been transferred to three different cars, the last taking him to this temporary sanctuary.

She had told him everything. Papa-Panos had convinced Michalis, Thanassis and Dr. Thackeray to let Lisa remain alive in the hope that Morrison would contact her in the event of trouble. Papa-Panos was proven right. Axiotis, the aged jailer at Averof, had delivered the note to Lazarus in Chalandri. In an hour the message was in Lisa's hands.

Then Lisa pulled her coup. Before she would turn over the information to Thanassis and Michalis, she demanded the freedom of her children as ransom for the information on Mike's whereabouts. Within another hour the raid on EFFINGHAM, Ill. (CP)—A woman, jailed for the fatal shooting of her husband, filed suits Friday asking $360,000 from six Effingham tavern owners.

When spring weather conditions are good for crop growth, farmers may expect weeds to grow rapidly, too.

Forage and grain crops men point out two general methods of weed control. The primary method is by using good cultural practices, a system that is simple and within the reach of everyone. The other—one that has been receiving increasing attention recently—is by chemical control.

Let's look at a few cultural practices.

Getting rid of as many weeds as possible before seeding a crop is desirable. Most farm land is well-supplied with weed seeds which germinate and begin growing when they are near the surface. Obviously, the farmer ought to use clean crop seed to avoid adding to the troubles already present.

Much satisfactory control may be achieved in meadow crops and in uncultivated small grains or drill-sown soybeans by proper seed bed preparation. Getting the seed bed ready well in advance of seeding will give the farmer an opportunity to kill one or more new crops of weeds by stirring the surface soil with shallow-running implements. Weed seeds deep in the soil usually remain dormant. With these fast-germinating weeds destroyed the farm crops are able to get a good start and crowd out obnoxious weeds. Planting some crops, such as corn, in a rough seed bed now is getting attention.

Seeding farm crops at a time when soil moisture and temperature conditions are favorable also permits crops—particularly new meadow seedings—to start fast and get ahead of weeds. This is part of the system of competitive control which may be helped by maintaining a high level of soil fertility.

Further control of weeds in meadow crops may be obtained by mowing the fields when weeds are in bloom. This catches them at the time when roots are nearly exhausted of reserve food supply; but before new seed has been produced. Cutting the weeds at this time seriously weakens the plants so that the desirable forage crops may compete more successfully. The best place for weedy forage is in the silo.

The use of chemicals for weed control has made rapid strides in the last few years. The practice still is so new that much remains to be learned by experiments, but it is evident that the next half dozen years will see much progress toward developing highly selective herbicides for controlling certain types of weeds without seriously damaging the crops. More plentiful commercial supplies will make the use of chemicals more economical for the farmer, too.

Oat Silage Well Packed

Oat silage put into a bunker, stack or surface silo needs to be especially well packed.

W. W. Albert, livestock specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, reminds you that oat stems are hollow. For that reason oat silage is hard to put up than other forms of silage and needs to be well packed to cut down spoilage.

Some farmers have been timing their cuttings of oats and grass-legume mixtures to put alternate loads of each into the silo, Albert says. You can usually expect from three to six inches of top spoilage no matter how hard you pack the silage.

Either oats or grass-legume mixtures cut at the right stage and allowed to wilt in the field before ensiling will keep fine without preservative, the specialist points out. However, 150-200 pounds of ground ear corn in each ton of silage is good insurance against spoilage and increases the feeding value of the silage.

Grass silage has more protein but less energy than oat silage, but both make very good wintering forages for a cow herd. Oat silage needs less grain for winter supplement but may sometimes need a little protein supplement.

You can maintain the flesh of cows during the winter on grass silage, but you'll need to add grain to improve their condition. For gains of over one pound a day, stockers will need three to four pounds of corn a day added to either oat or grass silage throughout the winter feeding season.

It is not lawful in Illinois to empty a septic tank drain into a road ditch. It must have its own properly installed subsurface drain system.

A University of Illinois forest products specialist says that with wise management Illinois farmers could triple the production of their farm woodlands.

Drench ewes and lambs with phenothiazine before you turn them out, and rotate their pasture very year to keep down infestations of stomach worm.

In general, the current tendency is to resort to chemicals when adequate control by cultural methods isn't possible. Testing of both pre-emergence and post-emergence sprays is prevalent and showing promise. They are marketed under various trade names. Agricultural schools, state and federal experiment stations, and industrial research agencies are working on the problems. Farmers ought to consult farm advisers, reputable specialists, and farm publications for information.

Always follow carefully the directions on the spray material packages; this point cannot be emphasized too strongly. Methods successful for one kind may be entirely wrong for another.

FARMING IN ILLINOIS:

Center of Agriculture Shifts Slightly to North

By RAYMOND COFFEY

United Press Staff Correspondent

The center of Illinois agriculture based on crop and livestock values has shifted about 10 miles north in the past 25 years, a geographer said today.

Dr. Howard G. Roepke, assistant professor of geography at the University of Illinois, also reported that Illinois' wealthier farms are in the northern part of the state.

Roepke, who has studied geographical trends in Illinois farming for years, used two yardsticks to measure the center of the state's agriculture—total land in crops and total value of products.

There has been no great shift in either center in the last 30 years, he said, but what shift there has been was to the north.

Logan County in Center

Roepke said the center of agriculture based on total land in crops is "located in extreme northeastern Logan County and has not moved appreciably in the past 25 years."

He said the center of farming based on crop value is in western McLean County, about 15 miles north of the other center.

The products-value center has "moved about 10 miles due north in the past 25 years," he said.

Roepke said that in most of northern Illinois, "more than half of the farms sell at least $10,000 worth of products a year." In the southern half of the state, he said, "one-third or less of the farms in most counties" hit the $10,000 mark in a year.

Roepke, who also has studied the production centers of many individual Illinois crops, said the center of corn production "moved very markedly north" between 1950 and 1954.

Cattle Move North

"I don't know yet whether this was because of rapidly-maturing hybrids or some other reason," he said.

Roepke said the centers of hay, vegetable and cattle production also have moved north in recent years. The hub of winter wheat output has shifted slightly southward, the only crop to move in that direction.

Roepke said production centers of a "great majority" of individual crops and livestock specialties were "clustered very close together in western McLean and eastern Tazewell counties." None of these centers has shifted much in 25 or 30 years, he said.

Safety Plaques By Two Research Staff Members

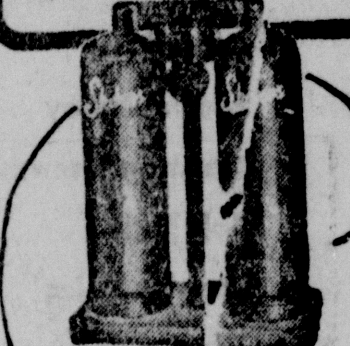

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Twenty years without loss of time due to accidental injuries is the record of two staff members at the Carbonada U. S. Forest Research Center at Southern Illinois university.

They are Leon S. Minckler, silviculturist, and Clifford Nashland, assistant superintendent of the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest in Hardin county.

W. G. McGinnies, Columbus, O., director of the Central States Forest Experiment Station to which the Carbonada Research Center is attached, has announced that the National Safety Council has awarded the station a plaque for a perfect safety record in 1955.

Richard D. Lane, forester in charge at Carbonada, and L. C. Henderson, chief clerk, have received 15-year safety certificates, while five year certificates went to Willard Jackson and Chester Jensen, foresters; William Plass, superintendent of the Kaskaskia Experimental Forest; Millard Spivey, woods foreman, and Miss Geo Caraway, secretary. Seven temporary employees received one-year awards for safety records. All are on the Carbonada Research Center staff.

Prices Up On Illinois Timber

Farm timber prices are higher this year than they were in 1955.

W. F. Bulkley, extension forester at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture, says the average price of white oak sawlogs is now $45 a thousand board feet, three dollars higher than last year. Oak makes up the bulk of Illinois timber sales.

Other timber that has gone up in price includes hard maple, $4; hickory and soft maple, $2; and red and black oaks, $1. Prices of water oaks and ash are the same as last year, while walnut has gone down $7 and yellow poplar is $2 less.

These prices are listed on a semi-annual timber products market report prepared jointly by the Illinois Crop Reporting Service and the Illinois Technical Forestry Association at Springfield. The information for the reports comes from timber buyers and sawmill operators who send quarterly re-

Veterinary Field Is Wide Open to Talent

CHICAGO — (U) — The American Veterinary Medical Association reports that a number of veterinary schools have a far greater demand for graduates than they are able to supply.

"The demand for veterinarians to help protect the nation's public health and huge livestock industry is very great," the AMVA said.

"Employment opportunities for veterinarians also include research work in the meat packing and processing industry and in governmental public health services in addition to the broad field of general practice."

ports to the Crop Reporting Service.

Woodland owners benefit first from these reports by getting price information when they want to sell. Timber log or forest products buyers also use the reports to keep informed on current prices. Rises in sawlog prices are usually followed by increases in the price of finished lumber, Bulkley says.

This Week at DIXON SPRINGS

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

Market Steers

Feeding and lot chores for Station cattlemen came to an end on the last day of April. That's the day that the two-year-old, heavy, fed steers were moved to market. From the feedlot performance of these steers, we learned that it is not best to withhold stilbestrol until the last half of the feeding period. It's better to feed it the first half. Stilbestrol, a growth and fattening synthetic hormone, in this trial had a residual influence on later economy and rate of gain. The steers fed stilbestrol during only the first half of the feeding period out-gained those getting it the last half.

In this same trial, feeding phenothiazine at a low level both with and without the stilbestrol supplement failed to produce faster gains. Phenothiazine is a drug that is used to help control internal parasites. The cattle were native Hereford steers born and raised on the Station. Apparently the control group was only lightly infected with stomach worms—not enough to slow their gains.

Corn Planting

Now that steer feeding is over, the present big push is corn planting. Many of our friends are surprised to learn that on a pasture experiment station we annually plant as much as 400 acres of corn. We do it because we have learned that pastures are rarely topnotched after five to six years. Corn is part of our pasture renovation schedule. With care we can safely grow this crop once every five or six years on most of the Station hill land. Tillage methods used on corn help to clean up the weeds that are hard to control on permanent grazing land. This same tillage provides the seedbed for the small grain and pasture following the corn. We plan to take off most of the corn for silage so that we can make fall seedings early enough to get good winter cover.

Sheepmen Are Busy Too

The press of spring work is also being felt at the sheep barns. But, unlike the cattle crew, the keepers of the woolies have not entirely finished feeding, nor will they be finished for another 60 to 80 days.

Farm Marketings In Four Months Total $7.9 Billion

WASHINGTON — The Agriculture Department said today farmers received about $7,900,000,000 from marketings in the first four months of 1956—5 per cent less than in the same period last year.

Prices averaged 6 per cent lower. But the total volume of marketings was slightly larger.

The department said in its publication, "The Demand and Price Situation," that receipts from livestock and products for the January-April period was five billion dollars, down 4 per cent from the corresponding period in 1955.

Prices were 8 per cent lower with marketings up a little. Slightly larger cash receipts from milk only partly offset lower receipts from cattle and hogs.

Crop receipts of $2,900,000,000 declined 5 per cent, mostly because of lower prices. Receipts from soybeans and tobacco were down compared to a year ago, reflecting smaller marketings. Declines in receipts from wheat, corn, potatoes, and truck crops were due to lower average prices.

Cash receipts from marketings in April were estimated at $1,900,000,000, up 7 per cent from March because of slightly higher prices and seasonally larger marketings. But prices were lower than in April, 1955, resulting in a 4 per cent drop in cash receipts.

Receipts from livestock in April were about $1,300,000,000. Crop receipts were down 600 million dollars.

PURINA FLY CONTROL PAYS OFF!

It's more true now than at any time of the year. Start your Purina Fly Control early and kill 1,000,000 flies for one. Yes, one fly can produce a million offspring before fall.

To help you do it effectively at surprisingly low cost we have dairy, barn and cattle sprays... even home sprays... all products of Purina Research. And, tops on the list is Purina Fly Bait... the dry fly killer that sold 2 million lbs., strong its first year. We'll show you how it works.

ARE YOU FEEDING WORMS?

Let pigs and poultry worm themselves the drinking water way with Purina's new Liquid Wormers. Ask about them... newest products of Purina Research.

Mrs. L. W. Tucker, Rt. 2, Harrisburg, who started her chicks out right with Purina chows got her first flock ready for the deep-freeze last week and at the end of seven weeks and three days these fryers averaged 3 3/4 pounds, which according to Checkerboard standards is a pretty fine average.

SANITATION MEANS PURINA DRY FLY BAIT

ONE GETS YOU A MILLION — Yes sir, kill one fly early in the season and you kill more than a million potential flies. That's how fast they multiply. Kill them the easy way with Purina Fly Bait. Just scatter around dairy barns, poultry houses, stables, dog kennels, feed rooms, barns and even outdoor areas.

Theo Warren, RFD Carrier Mills, brought in an egg measuring eight inches in circumference last week, and of course it was produced by one of his Checkerboard Layena Chow eating hens.

Speaking of hens, Mrs. George Winters, Herod, has told us about a near record making egg collection for a winter month. In February her 150 hens laid 236 dozen eggs. That's 2,835 eggs and eggs laid by her Purina Chow fed hens.

The Godards were happy to welcome in their home this week some of the Methodists attending the conference here. Didn't have to promise them fried chicken either. Maybe the preacher was right!

With school ending and a Purina daughter about to graduate, a house full of company and the usual spring requests of Purina Customers, excuse us for our briefness. We will have more to say about more next time.

Kluszewski Sparks Reds To Victory Over Braves; Dickson Wins for Cardinals

By United Press
Ted Kluszewski, the guy with the bulging biceps, is helping Cincinnati muscle in on first place in the National League.
The husky, barrel-chested Kluszewski, whose physical proportions make him look like "Mr. America" at bat, personally powered the Redlegs to within nine percentage points of first place when he smashed out four hits, including his ninth homer, in a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee Friday night.
Kluszewski's lusty hitting, which drove in three runs, put Cincinnati in a virtual first-place tie with both the Braves and the Cardinals, who scored a 6-1 triumph over the last-place Cubs.
Milwaukee led 5-4 going into the ninth inning but Cincinnati tied the score on singles by Johnny Temple, Gus Bell and Kluszewski. The winning run then came across on Bill Bruton's throwing error, one of four committed by the Braves, who blew a four-run lead. Reliever Joe Black was credited with the victory while veteran Warren Spahn took the loss.
Dickson Stops Cubs
Murry Dickson scattered eight hits in the Cardinals' victory over the Cubs. Rookie Don Blasingame collected three hits to pace St. Louis' 10-hit offensive. Loser Russ Meyer walked Kenny Boyer with the bases full in the third to force in the Cards' first run and an infield out in the same frame scored Blasingame with the only other run Dickson needed.
The Pirates climbed to within a half game of first place with an 8-5 decision over the Phillies as Dale Long equalled a major league record by hitting a home run in his sixth straight game. Long's 12th homer of the year with one on in the fifth tied a record held jointly by former American leaguers Lou Gehrig and Ken Williams and National leaguers Willie Mays, Walker

Ted Williams Begins X-Ray Treatment For Bruised Instep

BOSTON — Slugger Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox today began deeper X-ray treatments for his bruised instep and vowed he'd "come back from this one."
Williams, out of action except for occasional pinch hitting roles since April 18, said he was "plenty discouraged" about the painful injury. But he added determinedly: "I'll come back, though, because I want to play ball."
The hard-hitting left fielder doubled as a pinch hitter Friday night as the Red Sox bowed, 10-5, to Washington.

Al Simmons, 54, Dies Suddenly; Former Great Major League Hitter

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP)—Al Simmons, 54, one of the greatest major league right-handed batters of all time, died at his home early today after apparently suffering a heart attack.
He was dead on arrival at Milwaukee County Emergency Hospital.
Simmons played with seven major league teams in his baseball career, but he achieved stardom with the Philadelphia Athletics from 1924 to 1934. He was the leading hitter in the American League in 1930 with a .381 average and again in 1931 with a .390 average.
In several seasons he led the

Gene Fullmer Defeats Humez; Seeks Title Bout

NEW YORK — Brawny Gene Fullmer, inspired by his bloody victory over European champion Charles Humez, offered $100,000 today for a shot at the world middleweight crown.
Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, said a millionaire friend would underwrite a $100,000 guarantee to Sugar Ray Robinson if necessary to entice the 35-year-old champion into the ring.
The 24-year-old mining welder stood out as an unquestioned challenger today because of the power and durability he displayed in Friday night's nationally televised and broadcast 10-rounder with blood-smeared Humez of France at Madison Square Garden.
Plunging in and out against the persistently advancing French veteran, Fullmer not only won a lopsided decision but he staggered him three times and appeared a certain kayo victor had the bout been slated for 15 rounds.
Gene's fourth straight victory of 1956 was achieved against the champion of Europe, the world's top-rated contender and the 13-10 favorite at ringside. Fullmer had been ranked second to the Frenchman among contenders. Moreover, 29-year-old Humez had a slight pull in the weights. He scaled 159 1/2 pounds to Gene's 158.
It was a good fight despite the Utah slugger's margin of victory. At the finish Humez was bleeding from both brows and the mouth and his left eye was badly swollen. His white trunks looked like scarlet batik-work. Fullmer was bleeding from a cut on his forehead, from the right ear and from the nose.

Michigan is Favored to Win Big 10 Meet

MINNEAPOLIS — Michigan ruled as a strong favorite today to capture its 22nd Big Ten outdoor track championship.
The Wolverines qualified 10 men in Friday's trials and were expected to nose out strong challenges from Indiana and Iowa, who succeeded in putting in 10 and 9, respectively, for the finals.
Indiana was virtually assured of the winning points in the broad jump after Hoosier Greg Bell leaped 25 feet 11 1/4 inches during trials. The jump was a new Minnesota Memorial Stadium record, surpassing the distance of 25 feet 4 1/4 inches set by Jerome Biffle of Indiana in the 1950 NCAA meet.
Minnesota went to the post with an early lead toward the team trophy as the Gophers finished one-two in the discus finals. Byrl Thompson took the championship with a heave of 160 feet 3 inches while teammate Dale Yonkey was second with 153 feet 2 1/4 inches.
Only one defending champ ran in the trials. He was Pete Gray of Michigan, who placed third in his heat of the half-mile event. The winner was Murray Keating of Iowa in 1:55.9. Gray's winning time last year was 1:51.4.
Elgar Bradham, Michigan State, qualified in both the 100-yard and the 220-yard dashes. Others who qualified for both events were Willie Garner of Minnesota, Charlie Carroll of Northwestern, Glenn Davis of Ohio State and Ed Hampton of Indiana.
Other qualifiers and their schools were: Michigan State, seven; Northwestern and Ohio State, six; Minnesota, three; Illinois, two, and Wisconsin one. Purdue failed to qualify a man.

Oakland, Ill., High School Placed on Probation by IHSA

OAKLAND, Ill. — Oakland high school has been placed on probation by the Illinois High School Assn. for one year because of a "disturbance" at a basketball game this past season.
Principal R. B. Casey confirmed the probation Friday after the IHSA refused to comment on the case.
Casey said the probation resulted from a "verbal fray" between spectators at a basketball game between Arcola and Oakland last January.
He said no players, or school or education officials were involved in the fracas.
Casey said the probation meant that "we are going to have to watch our behavior."
Albert Willis, IHSA executive secretary said it was against IHSA policy to "give any publicity" to such cases.

Red Strader, Former Coach Of 49'ers, Dies

BERKELEY, Calif. — Norman (Red) Strader, 53, former head coach of the San Francisco Forty Niners of the National Professional Football League, died in his sleep early today at his Berkeley home.
The former grid great from St. Mary's College was named All-America fullback on Walter Camp's third team in 1924 — although he weighed less than 150 pounds.
Strader's death came unexpectedly, although he had been under a doctor's care for a heart condition. His wife, Helen, heard him moan in his sleep shortly before midnight. He was rushed to Herick Memorial Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Child is Killed

URBANA, Ill. (UP)—Vicky Danielson, 1, was killed Friday night in a two-car collision here.
Her mother, Mrs. Doreen Danielson, and 2-year-old sister were injured in the crash.
NO MASQUERADE — A Dodger killer for five years with the Giants, Sal Maglie points to the fact that he is now pitching for Brooklyn.

A cross—a hundred crosses—marking the graves of men who died in the service of their country. But why a cross?

Is this the symbol of our gratitude for the sacrifice they made for us? It is not!

Is this the emblem of democracy and freedom in whose cause they laid down their lives? It is not!

But this is the symbol of a crucified and risen Christ. The One who unfolded for mankind the truth of God's love, the truth out of which democracy, freedom, and sacrifice have come.

The cross on a soldier's grave is a call to us—a call to the living to fill our churches. It is a call to serve with eager and sacrificial devotion the Lord whose Truth men have died to preserve.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

"The Church In Asia Minor"

Acts 13:14, 44-49
GOLDEN TEXT: "Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us: we pray you in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God." (II Cor. 5:20)

INTRODUCTION—Missions is at the very heart of the gospel. The story of the founding of the early churches is the story of missions. The growth of the church and of Christianity is the story of missions. Where the missionary element has been left out the churches have perished. Even Christians who are anti-missionary soon dry up and lose their influence. Churches which foster and promote missions are growing churches.

In the beginning of the history of the church movement God called ministers and sent them out to preach. (He does the same today.) These men were chosen vessels of God, set apart for the preaching of the gospel.

The Apostle Paul was one such chosen vessel. Let it be understood that he worked in and through the church. He was preaching down at Antioch when he received a call to be a missionary.

I THE CALL (VV. 1-4)

What does it mean to be "called" to preach, or to be "called" to be a missionary. This simply means that God speaks to the individual's heart, or mind and reveals to him that He wants him for special service. This "call" usually comes to one through impressions made by sermons, lessons, music, or conferences. The Holy Spirit does the "calling." The individual is definitely aware that the Holy Spirit is dealing with him. (A friend of mine in college one day told me he did not know if God wanted him to be a preacher or work in his dad's bank. I told him he should work in his dad's bank. If God had wanted him to preach, he would have had no doubt about it.)

Notice that the call that Paul received from the Holy Spirit came through a busy church down at Antioch. Paul and Barnabas were both preaching there. The church was willing to let this able man of God go at the bidding of the Holy Spirit, and sent these two fine men out from them to preach the gospel. There is a lesson here for churches of today!

II THE MISSIONARIES' JOURNEY (VV. 44-49)

These two men traveled through rough and rugged country and over storm-tossed seas to carry the gospel message. They faced all kinds of hardships for Christ's sake. We do not know how to appreciate the luxuries we enjoy today. We sometimes feel sorry for ourselves if things go wrong. Thank God for men like Paul and Barnabas who blazed the missionary trail. They suffered many a hardship without complaint.

Paul and Barnabas met with much opposition from men of their own race, the Jews. This is understandable. To accept Christ and Christianity meant to break away from some traditions that dated back into the centuries. Because of this extreme opposition Paul and Barnabas turned to the Gentiles.

CONCLUSION (Acts 14:26-28) Paul and Barnabas returned to the church in Antioch in Syria, which had sent them out on this missionary journey. There in that church they had a great missionary conference. (Read Acts 15.) It was here that they discussed that question as to whether a person is saved by grace through faith, or, by works. The outcome was that they decided that salvation is by the grace of God through faith in Jesus Christ.
